History and Description:

A wood frame, gable-roofed privy (Feature D, see Photo WY-112-D-1) is located south of the bunkhouse and is 4'3" square. The walls are covered with shiplap siding, and the roof is covered with wooden shingles. There is a wooden door in the south elevation, and the interior has a two-hole privy with a wood floor. The privy appears to be one of the original or early structures in the ranch complex.
